"He Won't Die"

Of consumption is a remark often made of a fleshy man. The remark expresses the popular recognition of the fact that the sign of consumption is emaciation, loss of flesh. On the other hand, a gain in flesh is a sure sign that wasting diseases are being cured.

Emaciated people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night sweats and weakness, have been perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The several steps of the cure were recorded in ounces and pounds of increasing weight. When there is gain in flesh the wasting disease is being surely cured.

Mr. W. H. K. Williams, of Arlington, Va., writes: "My son contracted a deep cold about the first of July, 1899, and had a terrible cough. We tried all kinds of remedies, but he got no better. He was so weak that he could not get up stairs. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I gave him three bottles and he was cured. He is now as healthy as a horse and has gained twenty pounds of flesh. I am just in receipt of a letter from him in which he says: 'I am well and hearty and getting very fat.'"

The Common Medical Advertiser, root large pages is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume of only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BEN HARDIN.

His Rough Exterior But Brilliant Mind.
Was Called "Kitchen Knife" by John Randolph, of Virginia, on Account of His Pungent Wit.

Ben Hardin as he was called by his friends was beyond doubt the greatest lawyer of his time, and perhaps the greatest the nation ever produced. It is the testimony of every historian of Kentucky, that he was one of the most remarkable and successful practitioners of his day and time, notwithstanding the fact that Kentucky was distinguished at that early age for her brilliant array of legal talent. There were such giants in jurisprudence as Felix Grundy, John Rowan, Chas. Barry, C. A. Wickliffe, John Pope and John Hays, and many others who have left a lasting impression upon the legal profession in Kentucky. But none of these great characters, though brilliant in their profession, were the equal of old Ben Hardin.

Mr. Hardin was a great worker; he practiced in the counties of Nelson, Washington, Bullitt, Hardin, Meade, Grayson, Marion, Spencer, Breckinridge and several others. No lawyer in the State had such a large and lucrative practice, and he had charged the customary fees his fortune would have been immense, for he had one side of every serious contested case. It is said that his consultations with his clients were very brief. He seemed to catch the points and facts of a case by intuition. This sometimes gave offense, but no client ever complained that he did not understand his case when it came to trial.

In 1813 ex-President James Buchanan was for a short time a resident of Elizabethtown. He had come West, he said, "to grow up with the country." Mr. Buchanan had an idea that all he had to do was to come to Kentucky and hang out his shingle, and he would at once become the brightest light in the new land of promise. But at the first term of court after his arrival, among other visiting lawyers was Ben Hardin, dressed in a suit of tow linen, (home spun) his clumsy fit helping to give the wearer a clownish appearance. Buchanan was surprised to see him take his seat among the other lawyers. On the third day of the term a case was called in which the pleadings were very intricate and for the strictest English forms before the day of Chitty. His wonder grew into astonishment that such a looking man as Ben Hardin had the depth and grasp to grapple with such subjects; but when he heard him argue it with a clearness and tact, power that evinced a master mind, he returned from the court house and prepared to abandon his new home, remarking to himself, that "if such a looking man as Ben Hardin was so smart in Kentucky there was a better opening for him in his old Pennsylvania home."

Benjamin Hardin was born in Westmoreland county, Pa., in 1784, and in 1787 was brought by his parents to Washington county, Ky. He received a good education. He studied law in 1804 at Richmond, Ky., with Martin D. Hardin, and in 1805 at Bardonia with Judge Grundy, and in 1809 was licensed to practice and settled in Elizabethtown, where he remained two years. He then removed to Bardonia and continued to live there until his death. Mr. Hardin was elected to the legislature in 1810, 1811, 1822 and to the State Senate from 1815 to 1817, from 1819 to 1823 and from 1833 to 1837, ten years in all. From September 1844 to February 1857 he was secretary of State under Governor Owensley, with whom he had one of the most heated controversies which has ever taken place among the public men of Kentucky. His last public service was in the Convention that formed the Constitution of 1849-50. His death occurred in September, 1854, aged 58 years. He was a firm believer in the Bible and belonged to the M. E. Church, South. While in Congress he occupied a higher rank as a debater than Mr. Hardin. His style is said to have been peculiar, pungent, sarcastic—making him an antagonist to be feared. John Randolph, of Roanoke, in allusion to Ben Hardin's peculiar style of oratory, used to call him the "Kitchen Knife," rough and ready, but keen and trenchant. In politics Mr. Hardin was a Whig.—M. in the Fairview Review.

EUGENE NEWMAN.

Washington Correspondent of the Post. Arraigns the Democrats of Missouri and Kentucky.

Washington, May 4.—As old Ben Butler remarked, "It is a d—d bad year for the wicked!"—in some quarters, at least. There is Missouri, full of the most righteous Democracy in the Union, trust-busters, octopus-chasers, and so on. The Missouri Democracy is undergoing the scrutiny of the grand jury, and a cold, cruel, scoffing world is told where those thousand dollar bills came from. Gath will hear of it, and the daughters of the Philistines will triumph. Even Pennsylvania is pointing fingers and making faces at Missouri.

We are told that Sir Robert Walpole governed England for more than 20 years, and that he governed it by corruption. He was not a dishonest man but he did not govern at all. He felt that he was. Certainly, he was a very great minister and a very great statesman. It was Walpole who saved the Hanoverian dynasty and did more than anybody else to establish the House of Commons as the first estate of the realm. He was called wicked minister, corrupt minister, and finally he was overthrown. In Walpole's day it was necessary to bribe. Can it be shown that bribery is necessary in the Missouri of our day? History has not vindicated Walpole, but it has condemned his offense. History will neither vindicate nor condemn that business in St. Louis and at Jefferson City.

The Missouri Democracy has long proclaimed from the house-tops that it is the sunny side of the Democratic peach, the asparagus bed of the Democratic garden, the bud of the lettuce of the Democratic salad, and all that. Col. Moses Wetmore is a distinguished Missouri Democrat—at once plottic and Democratic, a man of baronial estate and game preserve to stir the envy of a British lord. Col. Wetmore sold his business to the octopus and proceeded to chase the octopus. He is a pillar of Bryan Democracy, and doubtless he thinks the reorganizers a very wicked lot.

Missouri is the greatest of the reliable Democratic States. Its Democratic State. Its Democratic majority is like Pennsylvania's Republican majority—whatever the machine thinks necessary. There is every evidence that the Missouri Democratic machine—element of chance not attaching to Missouri's election—has long blackmailed corporations, doing business in the State. That is the way they get their campaign fund. A corporation, having no soul, has no politics, and long since corporations found that it was easier to bribe political machines than it was to buy elections.

Jay Gould said he was a Republican in a Republican district and a Democrat in a Democratic district. Mr. Gould was the incarnation of the corporate system. Missouri has thousands of honorable, excellent Christian citizens who obey the law and fear God. They are Democrats, and they see no harm in what John James Ingalls called frying fat out of corporations if the money is to swell Democratic campaign funds. In Pennsylvania there are thousands of good citizens who condone blackmail if the graft is contributed to the Republican campaign fund.

Now that sort of things is going on all over this country. That is what Gov. Beckham meant when he was talking about grafters and things, and that is what filled the campaign coffers of Gov. Beckham's party in 1890 and in 1900. There was a time when corporations sought out the grafters not the grafters sought out the corporations. When the celebrated Duke of Lerma ruled Spain the whole political system of that kingdom was a system of graft. Bribery was universal and it was the cancer that well-nigh destroyed a great nation and a superb people. If not checked it would do as much for us. England not only checked it, but eradicated it, else England had decayed as Spain did. Not only is there absolutely no liberty in the English Legislature, but there is no bribery in English elections. If Balfour or Chamberlain attempted the methods of Walpole he would destroy his future and the future of his party. If the English Commons were hauled up before the grand jury, as the Missouri Legislature is, there would be a revolution. But the Missouri Democracy, entrenched behind the Nesbit law, will only ask, "What are you going to do about it?"

And that was what the Goebel election law was made for. Nothing else

POLITICAL HATRED

A Full and Comprehensive Discussion of the Howard Trial.

The verdict of the jury in the case of Jim Howard was either a cowardly evasion of evident duty or another step in a program of a distinct political purpose. The jury having been solidly Democratic, there may be persons who may prefer to find in it a combination of both. There can be no question that if Jim Howard is guilty he richly deserves death. Anything less than that for the man who fired the shot that killed Senator Goebel is a failure of justice, a blot upon the State. Two men, Yontsey and Howard, have now been formally convicted of the murder, upon the theory that Yontsey planned and provided the means and that Howard actually committed the act.

It is not worth while to discuss the evidence by which the juries were convinced that these theories were facts. If Yontsey's testimony convinced the minds of the recent jury, it is curious to speculate how the preceding juries managed to find him guilty in the total absence of that testimony. But, as the other juries were solidly Democratic also, it may be as unnecessary to discuss the verdicts as the evidence. The residuum of the trials is that solidly Democratic juries have convicted the Republican accused at every trial and upon every phase and quality of evidence. And as long as the passions of political hatred are permitted to show in the court room, as long as justice is committed to the control of partisan juries, no other result can be expected.

We are not contending that Jim Howard is innocent. On that point nobody outside of those who committed the deed can have any knowledge. But any dispassionate reader of the testimony fairly reported must admit that the proof of his guilt was extremely doubtful. It would have acquitted men charged with any other murder.

The point we desire to make is that these are political trials, for political purposes. It is evident that there is nowhere on the side of the prosecution any desire to condemn to death any man who committed the murder, but if possible to procure testimony that will encompass the conviction of William S. Taylor, Mr. Goebel's honest-elected opponent, who dared to cross his ambitious path. Attorney Campbell declared in his speech Tuesday that there was "a higher than Taylor" who was guilty. There was no higher official personage than Gov. Taylor at that time, so we may guess from insinuation in the context that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company or one or more of its officials are in mind. That way also leads the heritage of Mr. Goebel's hatreds of men who crossed his purpose. That way, too, are kept fraternal political hatreds that not even the man-hunter of Ohio has yet dared to open to action, but which lie in obedience to the State and to be stirred up as political advantage demands.

The object of the prosecution has been plainly to trade off the obscure man or men who actually took part in the murder of Mr. Goebel for testimony of any sort that can be used to convict Taylor and Powers, who were high officials and Republican leaders, or the unnamed "higher than Taylor," who is presumed to have Brown-Democratic blood in his veins. There has been suspicion from the first that the actual slayer of Mr. Goebel, was merely the tool of higher conspirators. This suspicion has been held by the Democratic managers, and their whole effort has been to prove that suspicion. In order to do that the reward fund has been used to tempt witnesses, and fear of prosecution and promises of immunity have been freely used on others. The only testimony that has been produced has come from these three sources, all of them to be vigilantly suspected by every honest and sincere man. Not only this, there stalked behind Yontsey's "confession" the suggestion of tortures just short of the thumb-screw. What Mrs. Yontsey might have told we do not know, but much was indicated.

All this possible perjury and doubtful testimony has been marshaled through Democratic courts before Democratic juries, and the whole power of the law and the machinery of justice have been used to browbeat and intimidate the defense. Lawyers of the wrong politics have had a hard time in representing the defense. Witnesses to "hang Taylor and damn the Republican party" have had ample protection, while witnesses for the defense have been warned away. In the present trial George R. Hemphill,

WYMAN, KY.

Mr. Editor.—After a lengthy silence, I arise with the opening of spring to greet our many readers. Of the many leading subjects that are now before the American people, it seems to me that there is nothing of more importance to the general welfare of our people, than that of good roads. After a long rainy winter, our dirt roads and wooden bridges, are left on our hands in a fearful condition. Those of us who are of law-abiding age, have gone out and worked what time the law requires of us, and really more time than we could spare from our home duties, and yet our roads remain in an embarrassing condition. Now, what shall we do? It is plain to every thinking person, that a better system of road working, must become a matter of legislation. Our government is making extravagant appropriations for water-ways and other corporate enterprises, but nothing is ever said or done about this matter that touches the interest of every individual in the land—the improvement of our public highways. Our National Treasures has a surplus of millions of money lying idle in the banks. This divided among the several States and each State making a similar appropriation to be divided among its several counties, and each county, doing what it could, for itself would give us public roads, that would be up-to-date, and at the same time, make county life more pleasant, and add greatly to the wealth of the cities. Let every voter press this matter to the front and require of all our Legislators to labor and vote in the interest of good roads. As for a candidate for Governor of Kentucky, I think McLean county Republicans would prefer Clifton J. Pratt to any man that has yet been mentioned, and I know the Hon. Bob Slack would pull the entire vote for the party for Attorney General.

BUSY HOUSEWIVES.

Pe-ru-na a Prompt and Permanent Cure for Nervousness.

Mrs. Lulu Lerner, Stoughton, Wis., says: "For two years I suffered with nervous trouble and stomach disorders until it seemed that there was nothing to me but a bundle of nerves. I was very irritable, could not sleep, rest or compose myself, and was certainly unfit to take care of a household. I took nerve tonics and pills without benefit. When I began taking Pe-ru-na I grew steadily better, my nerves grew stronger, my rest was no longer fitful, and to-day I consider myself in perfect health and strength. My recovery was slow but sure, but I persevered and was rewarded by perfect health."—Mrs. Lulu Lerner.

Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty, recent Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters, at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, when living, was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University at Lincoln, Neb. In a letter written from 401 Sixty-seventh street, W. C. Chicago, Ill., she says: "I would not be without Pe-ru-na for ten times its cost."—Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE,
DR. A. D. PARK,
Rockport, Ky.

FOR CIRCUIT COURT CLERK,
E. G. BARRASS,
Taylor Mines, Ky.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For State Senator.

We are authorized to announce HON. A. S. BENNETT as a candidate for State Senator from the Seventh Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

We are authorized to announce S. L. STEVENS as a candidate for State Senator, from the Seventh Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

We are authorized to announce D. BAKER RHODES as a candidate for State Senator from the Seventh Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

The World's Fair was officially dedicated last Thursday.

The golden glimmering glow in the atmosphere is the summer sunshine at last.

To-morrow the Democrats of Kentucky will go through the form of naming nominees for the State offices.

A paper published at Lawrenceburg under the title of "It" has gone out of business. Its egotism perhaps knocked it out.

AFTER all the noise and fuss about a Democratic leader, "old Grover" is the foremost of them all, and the greatest of all his merits is that he sometimes agrees with the Republicans on important issues.

ALL pleasures of life by no means go to the rich. The plowman who whistles as he goes to his field and rejoices in song while he plows, and builds his home into a little paradise, gets more genuine pleasure out of life than the richest Shylock that lives.

The most obdurate public official will yield to popular demands and public clamor. Every public-spirited citizen of Ohio county should agitate the question of better public roads until an irresistible sentiment has been aroused for their material development.

ANOTHER jury, Democratic from tail to snout, has sentenced "Jim" Howard to life imprisonment. With no desire to condone murder, we would like to know how much longer the respectable citizenship of the State can look with any degree of allowance on these grotesque pictures of justice.

SOME mathematician has, after careful research and calculation, arrived at the conclusion that it takes just $1.40 to kill a man and obtain a certificate of good character in Louisville. When the inherent rights of Kentuckians are restricted in this manner, murder is likely to become unpopular in the Metropolis.

Two common school trustees have been indicted in Knox county for trying to get money out of an office to which no salary is attached. They are charged with accepting a bribe from a teacher who desired the school. This violation of the school law should not be looked upon with any degree of allowance by any community.

SENATOR Stone, of Missouri, who is vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has announced that, "I shall favor a platform both progressive and aggressive. I want the Democratic party to get in front of things and lead." We are surprised at the Senator's candor. We, too, think the Democratic party has long been a tail-end, but we thought few of them could be found who had the frankness to admit it.

OHIO county is soon to construct an iron bridge at Olanton, and, in conjunction with Grayson county, will build another over Rough creek at Cane Ford. The question which suggests itself is how to reach these bridges in winter when the public roads are impassable. For the benefit of the public we will state that the bridge at Olanton can be reached by rail, while those who desire to view the one at Cane Ford will have to take the water route.

A. E. WILSON, of Louisville, is out in a card expressing his willingness to accept the Republican nomination for Governor. He comes from a distinguished family, is a graduate of Harvard, a lawyer with no superior and a citizen on whose private life there is not a stain. His public utterances are always free from vituperation and abuse. If he should be made the standard-bearer of the Republican party, we venture to assert that all efforts to induce Cripps Beckham to meet him on the stump this fall, will prove unavailing.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER bids fair to become America's first billionaire. His gigantic fortune has been built up to its amazing heights during the past thirty years, and his physician has given out a statement that he has thirty years yet to live. The father of the oil king is hale at 93 and his mother lived to be 87; so his lease on life seems to be remarkably good. Mr. Rockefeller is steadily growing richer at a tremendous rate. His income from oil interests is said to be $50 a minute. He is largely interested in other fields of profit, and many banks, railroads and other sources of wealth yield him princely dividends. To what length he will be able to carry his great financial schemes in the rushing years of this greatest of all commercial ages almost surpasses comprehension. He is now, no doubt, looking forward serenely to the realization of his cherished ambition to be the first billionaire.

AUGUSTUS E. WILSON

Announces His Willingness to Accept Republican Nomination for Governor.

Louisville, May 4, 1913.—To the Republicans of Kentucky: In answer to many requests, in person and by letter, to announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor I have decided that it should be the judgment of the party that I should undertake this great duty I shall try to do it faithfully and usefully, to the very best of my power, and make the most earnest and energetic campaign to win the battle.

I do not believe that in a matter affecting the welfare of all our people my personal wishes should be considered, but that the Republican convention should take that course which it believes to be best for Kentucky, without bias, favor or prejudice and without regard to personal interests, and I do not ask that any delegates to the State Convention should be instructed for me, and I only wish that the convention should do that which is best for the whole State, patriotically and in a broad-minded, unselfish and liberal spirit.

The Republican party had its birth in the struggle against oppression, proscription and intolerance and in its high resolve to secure liberty to all men, and I regard this sentiment as above all business interests and relations.

I have not thought that it was necessary to make any announcement, and have not wished, nor felt able, to make any campaign for the nomination, but I make this announcement because of the requests to me to do so, and wish to add that whether I serve as the nominee for Governor or in the ranks I shall do all I can to win the battle for better government, better laws and the best administration of the business of the State.

AUGUSTUS E. WILSON.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

PLEASANT OUTING

Hunting and Fishing Club Encamped Near Upper Locks.

The Hartford Hunting and Fishing Club is spending the week on Rough river, near the upper locks. The club's boats, the "Hobo" and the "Dago," were utilized to transport the pleasure seekers and equipments to the place selected for the camp.

In addition to the absolute necessities of life a large quantity of mosquito netting and coils of disinfectant was added to the cargo. This forethought on the part of the club is highly commendable when we take into consideration the fact that the country in which they are sojourning is haunted with malaria and swarming with myriads of gnats of the genus culex.

The gentlemen composing the party are: A. D. White, Dr. A. F. Stanley, Capt. W. H. Moore, C. P. Nowlin, R. D. Walker, T. H. Black, E. P. Thomas, Jno. T. Moore, El Crabtree and Will Moore, Hartford; Judge Cansler, Hopkinsville; C. M. Barnett and J. P. Thomas, Louisville.

While attending the Street Fair, don't forget that Foster's Cash Grocery has the freshest of all kinds of Fruits.

The Street Fair.

As the time draws near for the Street Fair, interest in its success increases and from indications there will be nothing to ask for but room to stand. The Executive Board met last Monday and completed the programme in every detail, and they are putting forth every effort in connection with the business men to make the enterprise a success. More prizes are likely to be offered, chief among which will be a capital prize by the Hartford Bar, and also a nice premium by the "Court House Ring," or county officials.

There are handsome and valuable prizes offered for almost everything the farmers have and as it costs nothing to come or enter products, there is likely to be a very large number of entries in every ring.

GROWN IN KENTUCKY.

Thousands of Square Feet For Agricultural Products.

COLLECTION OF EXHIBITS BEGUN.

Everything That Springs From the Rich Soil of the Blue Grass State to Have a Place in the World's Fair Display—One Department For Fruits.

Kentucky will have 12,000 square feet of space in the Agricultural building at the Louisiana Purchase exposition next year. Five thousand square feet of this will be devoted to a collective exhibit of tobacco, 5,000 to general agricultural products and 2,000 to whiskey.

Col. Ion B. Nall, State Commissioner of Agriculture, is chairman of the committee on exhibits of agriculture and horticulture for the Kentucky exhibit association, and under his direction agricultural and horticultural products will be gathered for 5,000 square feet of space in the Agricultural building and for 3,000 square feet of space in the Horticultural building. Col. Nall has just issued a general circular of instructions, known as No. 2, on the collection of the agricultural displays, to the subcommittees in the different counties of the state, the total membership of his committee and subcommittees numbering 449.

In introducing this second circular Col. Nall says: "The object of the exhibit is primarily to advertise Kentucky, her land, her opportunities and everything that will tend to attract attention of home-seekers and investors to her yet undeveloped resources."

COL. ION B. NALL.

Chairman, Committee on Agriculture. Her prospects in many respects are unequalled and, in a few, exclusively her own. While much of her land is in profitable production, there are many thousands of acres lying idle or only producing half what should be grown. These need only the touch of skillful cultivation to bring the maximum of crops. We need the help of the educated farmer, from whatever source he may come. We need capital to further develop the state and improve her lands. Her World's Fair gives us the opportunity of obtaining this needed assistance by letting the world know what we can do. By their fruits shall ye know them."

Following this the chairman takes up different agricultural products and gives minute instructions to county committees on the collection of same. He asks for samples of grain as follows:

Corn—Entire stalk, 10 in number, with blades, ears and tassels complete; ears, 10 in number, shelled, one-third gallon in strong cotton bag. The varieties should all be shown, white, yellow, red, mixed, popcorn, Kaffir corn, etc.

Wheat—Sheaf, nine inches in diameter, bound with twine or wire; threshed, one-fourth bushel in cotton bag; should be shown in every variety grown in the state. The macaroni and Emmer wheat should be shown.

Oats—Sheaf, nine inches in diameter, bound with twine or wire; shelled, one-fourth bushel in cotton bag. Black, white, mixed, winter and every other variety.

Rye—Sheaf, nine inches in diameter, bound with twine or wire; threshed, one-fourth bushel in cotton bag.

Buckwheat—Sheaf, nine inches; threshed, one-fourth bushel in cotton bag.

Barley—Sheaf, nine inches, bound as above; threshed, one-fourth bushel in cotton bag.

Mr. Waddy of Waddy and J. B. Walker of Hopkinsville are chairmen of the subcommittees on grain for the eastern and western districts of the state respectively.

On grasses, Col. Nall says that all grain in the state, whether for meadow, pasture or forage, should be included. These samples, he states, should be about six or seven inches in diameter for the long grasses and less for the short ones, and should be carefully cured so as to retain bright color and sweetness. He wants two seeds of each variety of grass shown in sample of one gallon each. J. W. Smith of Glendale is at the head of the subcommittee collecting grasses. The Hon. J. C. Johnson of Louisville is to look especially to a display of grasses from the mountains.

While a special committee, of which Mr. Chas. D. Campbell is chairman, will have charge of the tobacco exhibit at the fair, Col. Nall has deemed it wise to include in the general agricultural display a section for tobacco, and has placed in charge of the collection of same H. M. Froman of Obion, for the burley type, Samuel H. Ewing of Owensboro for the dark export type and Judge T. T. Gardner of Bardwell for "the purchase" types. These gentlemen will only undertake to get two or three good samples from each tobacco growing county for exhibition among other products of the state. Col. Nall says it is proposed in this space to also show the tobacco plant from the seed in quart jars to samples of 10 pounds, as it is sold on the market. He instructs that samples should be six to ten hands, of about ten leaves each. He also wants an exhibition in all their stages of growth of the destructive insect enemies of tobacco. The committee will erect a small section of a barn and secure enough sticks of tobacco to show the curing process. It will also have seed stalks and seed capsules on display.

One of the most attractive exhibits in the agricultural department will be that of hemp. Major David Costleman of Pleasant Hill having consented to look after the collection of this display. This plant will be shown in all its stages, from seed to flint, and it is contemplated that an old-fashioned "brake" will be secured and an exhibition of breaking hemp will be given by the champion breaker of Kentucky. An old negro in Mercer county holds the 1902 record for hemp-breaking. It is possible that some hemp-breaker will lower the Mercer county record during 1903. The exhibit association wants to see the champion breaker of Kentucky. An old negro in Mercer county holds the 1902 record for hemp-breaking. Mr. Clarence Sale, of Louisville, will be in charge of the display of garden products. He expects the greater part of his display to be made from the crop of 1904.

Quite a large space is to be devoted to silos and forage plants. Dr. P. W. Foote, of Irvington, having accepted the chairmanship of this committee. Colonel Nall says an effort will be made to secure a large glass tube in which to exhibit silage. Leguminous plants useful for forage and hay will be gathered under this department.

Mr. F. C. Johnson, the president of the Kentucky Horticultural society and chairman of the horticultural committee of the exhibit association, will have 3,000 square feet of space in the Horticultural building in which to make a display of Kentucky fruits. He is laying plans for the biggest exhibit of this kind ever attempted by Kentucky. It is his purpose to keep a continuous exhibition of fruits in season during 1904. Not trusting, however, to uncertainty of seasons, Mr. Johnson will endeavor to secure some of the finest fruits this year and will keep same in glass or in cold storage for the fair. The display of fresh fruits will be requested from all the counties and Colonel Nall says should be looked to locally from each county under instruction to be given later.

The floral display is to be made under the direction of Henry Nanz, of Louisville.

Space is also to be devoted in the agricultural display to novelties. Under this head will come any freak of nature in the way of the largest pumpkin, the twin ear of corn, the stalk with most ears on it and in fact anything showing of the soil and yet unusual in its way. It will also include all the native wild products, such as nuts, grapes, paw-paws, black and red haws, and many other things that are about to be lost as the country is settled. Colonel Nall asks county committees to take special interest in this department, as it will show the range of production the soil is capable of.

A clock made entirely of flowers is a World's Fair feature. This clock has a dial 100 feet across and its hands are 50 feet long. It is the largest timepiece in the world.

The demand for lithographic prints of the official flag of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is growing rapidly. The big business houses have sent out a great many thousands of them.

An emergency hospital has been established by Medical Director Laidley in the northwest entrance pavilion of the Educational building at World's Fair at St. Louis. The pavilion, temporarily converted into a room by closing the doors, is 50 feet square.

Work on Jerusalem, one of the great concessions on The Pike, will begin in a few days. The Holy City will be reproduced and it will appear as it did in the days of Solomon. More than half a million dollars will be spent in completing the work, which will be historically correct.

An express car loaded with about 100 turnstiles from Cleveland, O., reached the Exposition grounds last week. It is seldom so large a shipment as a carload comes by express, but the immediate need for the appliances caused the dispatch.

Johnson, the president of the Kentucky Horticultural society and chairman of the horticultural committee of the exhibit association, will have 3,000 square feet of space in the Horticultural building in which to make a display of Kentucky fruits. He is laying plans for the biggest exhibit of this kind ever attempted by Kentucky. It is his purpose to keep a continuous exhibition of fruits in season during 1904. Not trusting, however, to uncertainty of seasons, Mr. Johnson will endeavor to secure some of the finest fruits this year and will keep same in glass or in cold storage for the fair. The display of fresh fruits will be requested from all the counties and Colonel Nall says should be looked to locally from each county under instruction to be given later.

The floral display is to be made under the direction of Henry Nanz, of Louisville.

Space is also to be devoted in the agricultural display to novelties. Under this head will come any freak of nature in the way of the largest pumpkin, the twin ear of corn, the stalk with most ears on it and in fact anything showing of the soil and yet unusual in its way. It will also include all the native wild products, such as nuts, grapes, paw-paws, black and red haws, and many other things that are about to be lost as the country is settled. Colonel Nall asks county committees to take special interest in this department, as it will show the range of production the soil is capable of.

The demand for lithographic prints of the official flag of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is growing rapidly. The big business houses have sent out a great many thousands of them.

An emergency hospital has been established by Medical Director Laidley in the northwest entrance pavilion of the Educational building at World's Fair at St. Louis. The pavilion, temporarily converted into a room by closing the doors, is 50 feet square.

Work on Jerusalem, one of the great concessions on The Pike, will begin in a few days. The Holy City will be reproduced and it will appear as it did in the days of Solomon. More than half a million dollars will be spent in completing the work, which will be historically correct.

An express car loaded with about 100 turnstiles from Cleveland, O., reached the Exposition grounds last week. It is seldom so large a shipment as a carload comes by express, but the immediate need for the appliances caused the dispatch.

The State department at Washington reports that the Emperor of Korea has formally accepted the invitation

Editorial display a section for tobacco, and has placed in charge of the collection of same H. M. Froman of Obion, for the burley type, Samuel H. Ewing of Owensboro for the dark export type and Judge T. T. Gardner of Bardwell for "the purchase" types. These gentlemen will only undertake to get two or three good samples from each tobacco growing county for exhibition among other products of the state. Col. Nall says it is proposed in this space to also show the tobacco plant from the seed in quart jars to samples of 10 pounds, as it is sold on the market. He instructs that samples should be six to ten hands, of about ten leaves each. He also wants an exhibition in all their stages of growth of the destructive insect enemies of tobacco. The committee will erect a small section of a barn and secure enough sticks of tobacco to show the curing process. It will also have seed stalks and seed capsules on display.

One of the most attractive exhibits in the agricultural department will be that of hemp. Major David Costleman of Pleasant Hill having consented to look after the collection of this display. This plant will be shown in all its stages, from seed to flint, and it is contemplated that an old-fashioned "brake" will be secured and an exhibition of breaking hemp will be given by the champion breaker of Kentucky. An old negro in Mercer county holds the 1902 record for hemp-breaking. It is possible that some hemp-breaker will lower the Mercer county record during 1903. The exhibit association wants to see the champion breaker of Kentucky.

Mr. Clarence Sale, of Louisville, will be in charge of the display of garden products. He expects the greater part of his display to be made from the crop of 1904.

Quite a large space is to be devoted to silos and forage plants. Dr. P. W. Foote, of Irvington, having accepted the chairmanship of this committee. Colonel Nall says an effort will be made to secure a large glass tube in which to exhibit silage. Leguminous plants useful for forage and hay will be gathered under this department.
